ZONE AT PUNE

Original Application No. 92/2024

IN THE MATTER OF:

Suo Motu cognizance by the Hon'ble Tribunal based on News Article dtd. 26.03.2024

Additional Affidavit in Reply on behalf of Respondent No. 4 MCGM.

1. I, Shri. Jitendra V. Pardeshi, Indian Inhabitant, Working as Superintendent of Gardens & Tree Officer with Municipal Corporation of Greater Mumbai, Having office at 2nd floor, Penguin Bldg., Veer Jijamata Bhosale Botanical Udyan, Byculla- 27 Mumbai do hereby state on solemn affirmation as under :-
2. I say that this Hon'ble Tribunal, vide order dated 15.04.2026, directed the Respondents to provide data regarding methodology of transplantation and wardwise permission data.
Hereto Annexed and marked as Annexure 'A' (Wardwise) data.
3. It is respectfully submitted that the Municipal Corporation of Greater Mumbai (MCGM), through the Tree Authority/Tree Officer, give necessary permissions for transplantation of trees. Under the provisions of the Maharashtra (Urban Areas) Protection and Preservation of Trees Act, 1975, the Tree Authority is entrusted only with the statutory function of scrutinising applications and granting or refusing permission for tree transplantation after following the prescribed procedure and subject to such terms and conditions as deemed appropriate. The actual transplantation, including engagement of specialised agencies, deployment of machinery, execution of transplantation, post-transplant maintenance, monitoring and ensuring the survival of transplanted trees, is carried out by and remains the sole responsibility of the concerned Project Proponent/Executing Agency. Accordingly, the ward-wise statement enclosed herewith represents only the permissions granted by the Tree Authority and not the transplantation work executed by MCGM.
4. Step-wise Methodology of Tree Transplantation

After obtaining permission from the Tree Authority, the Project Proponent generally undertakes tree transplantation by following widely accepted practices, as under:

- i. Necessary branch trimming is carried out to reduce the canopy load, minimise transpiration, facilitate safe handling and transportation, and reduce transplant shock.
- ii. Adequate watering is carried out prior to excavation to soften the surrounding soil, facilitate excavation and obtain a larger and intact root ball with minimal damage to the root system.

- iii. The tree is carefully excavated while preserving the maximum possible root system and maintaining an adequately sized root ball.
 - iv. The root ball is securely packed using suitable materials such as hessian cloth, jute or other appropriate wrapping material to prevent disintegration of the soil and protect the roots during handling and transportation.
 - v. Appropriate fungicidal/disinfectant treatment is applied to the root ball and the recipient pit, wherever required, to minimise the risk of fungal or microbial infection.
 - vi. The tree is carefully lifted using cranes or other specialised equipment and shifted to the designated transplantation site while ensuring that the integrity of the root ball is maintained and damage to the tree is minimised.
 - vii. The recipient pit is prepared with suitable topsoil, compost/organic manure, soil amendments and proper drainage arrangements. The tree is then replanted at the appropriate depth and orientation, followed by backfilling and firm compaction around the root ball.
 - viii. Adequate staking other structural supports are provided to ensure stability of the transplanted tree until it is firmly established.
 - ix. Immediate aftercare, including watering, mulching, application of suitable nutrients and plant protection measures, wherever required, is undertaken to minimise transplant shock and promote establishment.
 - x. Regular post-transplant maintenance and monitoring, including irrigation, inspection, adjustment of supports, nutrient application and pest and disease management, are carried out during the establishment period to maximise the survival of the transplanted tree.
5. It is respectfully submitted that the survival of transplanted trees depends upon several biological, environmental and operational factors and cannot be attributed solely to the process of transplantation. The survival rate is influenced by factors such as the species of the tree, its age, girth, size, physiological health and structural condition, the season during which transplantation is undertaken, prevailing climatic conditions, soil type and fertility, availability of adequate rooting space at the recipient site, preservation and size of the root ball, efficiency of lifting and shifting operations, quality of transplantation techniques adopted, availability of water, adequacy of irrigation and post-transplant maintenance, pest and disease management, and protection from mechanical damage, extreme weather events and other external disturbances. Accordingly, the successful establishment and survival of transplanted trees primarily depends upon scientific execution of transplantation and sustained post-transplant care by the concerned Project Proponent/Executing Agency.

6. I say that the present proceedings before this Hon'ble Tribunal pertain to issues, the same or substantially similar part of which are already under consideration before the Hon'ble Supreme Court of India in proceedings WP No. (Civil) 2 of 2019, which are presently pending adjudication.

7. Therefore, I say that the present proceedings before this Hon'ble Tribunal would result in parallel adjudication on identical issues.
